

Tasty Thais

10 Easy Thai Recipes

by Phasinee

Hi, I'm Phasinee,

a Thai mum who creates recipes at
TastyThais.com and videos at the YouTube TastyThai channel.

I love food and especially Thai food because it is anything but boring. Bold flavors work together in harmony to bring the world the unique style of cooking that is Thai.

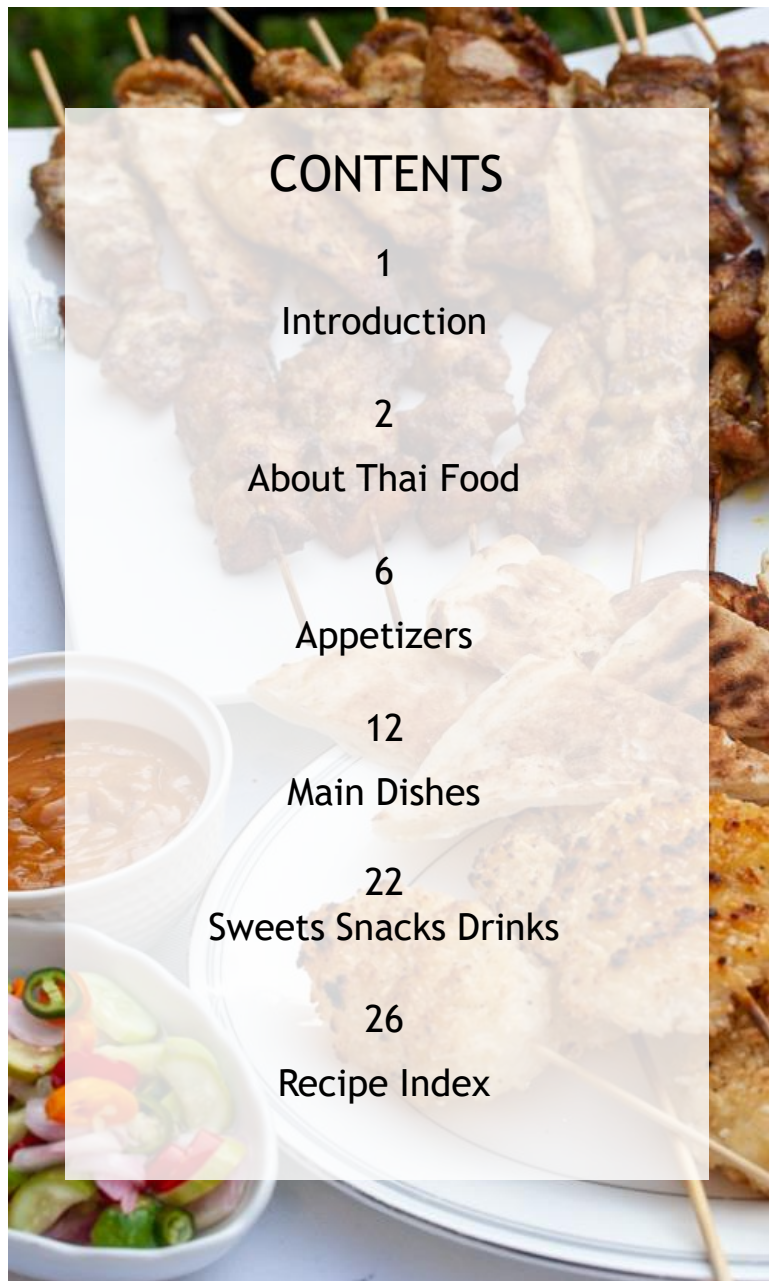

You may have visited Thailand or ordered a Thai take away to pique your interest for more. I want to help you experience Thai food as it should be, right in your own home.

Regardless of your culinary skill level you'll soon be recreating Thai dishes that will far exceed anything you get from the local takeaway or order ready made.

If you are just discovering the taste of Thai, then you will probably want to try a limited range of dishes before deciding to get serious. At that point you will need to invest in some special bits of kit like a mortar and pestle, rice cooker and so on. But, intentionally, these recipes can be made from the equipment most people already have.

You will need to buy some special ingredients but so unusual that you won't find at a reasonably good Asian market store or online or be able to make a substitution that doesn't destroy the overall balance of the dish.

I hope you enjoy this free Thai cookbook!

CONTENTS

1	Introduction
2	About Thai Food
6	Appetizers
12	Main Dishes
22	Sweets Snacks Drinks
26	Recipe Index

For more recipes, please visit tastythais.com or my video channel at <https://youtube.com/TastyThaiFood>

Phasinee - To new culinary discoveries!

BALANCE IN THAI FOOD

Thai food is very much about balance between the five tastes as well as the spice of a dish.

Science tells us the five basic tastes are sweet, sour, salty, savoury (umami) & bitter. As cooks and diners we can also add several more qualifiers such as spicy, hot or cold, smooth or lumpy, soft or crunchy.

You will see me talk about tasting food for balance. In Thai cuisine there is an expectation that a dish will balance sweet, sour, salt, savory and level of spice – you may argue the scale of balance for spiciness was overcome a long time ago for some Thai dishes.

For our purposes, I would like you to taste food often through the cooking process at opportune times to test whether a dish has become out of balance. Does it taste a bit too sweet for your liking? Not spicy enough? A little bland and could do with more umami? But perhaps not salty enough is the most important since salt is hugely significant for our sense of taste.

SPICINESS

The recipes in this ebook are tested and revised several times until we think we have the best recipe. We are a Thai family and accustomed to eating spicy food with local ingredients with a spice level that is moderate for Thais.

Moderate spiciness for Thais will likely be spicy to very spicy for people not used to spicy food. Also, chillies have wide differences in how spicy they are and you will probably use different chillies to the ones I buy at my local market - more about that below.

The best way to adjust spiciness is to get used to the level of spiciness of the chillies available locally to you and adjust accordingly.

My advice for beginners is to reduce the amount of chili spice in these recipes until you get an idea of the level of spice that suits your taste and then adjust each dish by a similar ratio to avoid cooking something way too spicy for you and your family or guests.

For more recipes, please visit my website TastyThais.com or my video channel at <https://youtube.com/TastyThaiFood>

MORE IMPORTANT STUFF

SPICINESS Contd.

The level of spice is a key item in the balance of a dish – strictly spiciness is not classified as a taste but remember that chilies do have their own taste as well as spice level.

CHILIES

In Thailand we have four main types of chilies that are commonly used.

Bird's Eye chili does not seem to be equivalent to what is referred to as Bird's Eye chili in most of the rest of the world. None of the dishes in this ebook use these tiny, fiery hot chilies and if you are just beginning to explore Thai food you should not use them either! Better to build up some tolerance for chili heat first!

Jinda Chilies are hot medium sized chilies that are particular to Thailand. You can find them in other countries but the nearest equivalents are: Fresno , Hot Anaheim, Jalapeno, or Serrano chilies. These are the most common hot Thai chili that are used in our recipes.

Spur Chili – is the larger mild chili that is used more for decoration and in pickles.

Bell Pepper – The large bell shaped like pepper that is common across most of the world.

When using hot chilies you can reduce spiciness by reducing the quantity. The better way we think is by removing the chili seeds but you do need to experiment to find what works for you.

SUGAR

Most Thai food is traditionally cooked with palm or coconut sugar which you can buy in the local Thai markets as a paste rather than granules as in the West.

These sugars have their own particular tastes which they bring to the dishes. You can find these online or at good quality Asian markets.

Thais also use brown and white sugar as well. These can be substituted for palm and coconut sugars with the understanding that there will be a subtle difference in taste. The difference will not be so great as to destroy the overall taste of the dishes unless specifically noted in the recipe.

In some dishes and more so drinks, we use dried stevia as a sweetener. These leaves are much better than the processed powders in our opinion. They are readily available online as well.

For more recipes, please visit my website TastyThais.com or my video channel at <https://youtube.com/TastyThaiFood>

MORE IMPORTANT STUFF

SUGAR Contd.

Sugar is one of the key items to taste for when we talk about tasting for balance.

SALT

Most Thai recipes will call for the use of fish sauce which provides most of the salt taste as well as umami or savoury tastes to a dish.

Vegans & Vegetarians can use a fish sauce substitute which gives both salt and umami flavouring that is quite close to regular fish sauce.

You can also use other types of salt such as table salt, sea salt or rock salt; each of these have different levels of saltiness. If you are used to using one type of salt and change take extra care in the amounts used until you get familiar with the qualities of the new type.

Salt and Savoury (umami) are both key items when we talk about tasting for balance.

SOUR

The last component of balance is the taste of sourness.

Acid gives us sourness and usually comes from the addition of lime juice. Lemon juice is a reasonable substitution but the taste is slightly different.

Other fruit such as pineapple and tamarind are also used and each brings a different sour taste. Omitting these ingredients will substantially alter the taste of a dish.

The sourness of a dish is the last key item we look for when tasting food for balance.

SEASONINGS

We make use of various seasonings such as mushroom seasoning, pork seasoning, chicken seasoning, stock cubes and the like. Since every brand is different just use whatever is available locally and adjust to taste.

Cooking is a process of tasting and adjusting anyway so feel free to adjust recipes to your taste and to sub out similar ingredients for others that are more readily available.

For more recipes, please visit my website TastyThais.com or my video channel at <https://youtube.com/TastyThaiFood>

MORE IMPORTANT STUFF

OTHR INGREDIENTS

Kaffir Lime leaves are a frequent addition to many Thai dishes. These are either torn and tossed into the dish or rolled and julienned very finely with the intention they are eaten along with the other ingredients.

Kaffir Lime leaves have several redeeming qualities so do not be afraid to julienne instead of tearing the leaves in dishes with textured ingredients. You probably wouldn't do that in a crab curry though where the overall texture of the dish is smooth.

Fish Sauce – really an essential to have stocked if you are cooking Thai food. The tastes of the various brands vary greatly and it is worth getting a premium fish sauce that suits any dietary needs you have.

Oyster Sauce – another essential ingredient used in Asian cooking generally and worth adding to your stock ingredients.

Mushroom Soy Sauce – a very common ingredient that can replace some or all of the regular soy sauce in a recipe and in so doing increasing the umami taste.

Light Soy Sauce – The most common soy sauce used in a huge percentage of Thai dishes and another condiment worth adding to your larder or pantry.

Dark Soy Sauce – Similar to light soy sauce but with a much stronger taste and somewhat thicker.

Tamarind Paste – a distinctive taste and fairly common ingredient that cannot be substituted with anything else really. This can be made from blocks of tamarind pulp by mixing with water and stores well if refrigerated.

Lime Juice – you can substitute with lemon juice if limes are really expensive or unavailable in your location. Although ready squeezed lime and lemon juice as well as frozen products are available we very much prefer fresh squeezed for taste.

For more recipes, please visit my website TastyThais.com or my video channel at <https://youtube.com/TastyThaiFood>

Tom Yum is the most famous of the Thai soups. There are several variations. This recipe is made with coconut milk and mushrooms which is delicious!

Notes on This Dish

This is the creamy version of Tom Yum
Suitable for vegans & vegetarians if you use this fish sauce substitute.
Coconut milk tempers the chili spiciness.
Adjust sugar to taste and balance.

Recipe Notes

There is no real substitute for galangal so omit if unavailable – don't use ginger!
See chili substitute ideas here.
Substitute coconut milk with evaporated milk – gives a slightly heavier taste
Salt is adjusted with either fish sauce or regular salt. If you use fish sauce this will also increase umami so making the soup more savory tasting.

INDICATIVE NUTRITION GUIDE per serving

Calories: 318kcal | Carbohydrates: 43g | Protein: 15g | Fat: 14g | Saturated Fat: 11g | Sodium: 3740mg | Potassium: 968mg | Fiber: 9g | Sugar: 15g | Vitamin A: 1231IU | Vitamin C: 147mg | Calcium: 98mg | Iron: 7mg

Unattended: 0 mins

Preparing: 5 min

Cooking: 10 min

INGREDIENTS

- 1 shallot
- 1 cilantro or coriander incl. roots (roots & leaves separated)
- 3 slices galangal
- 2 lemongrass stems
- 2 spring onion / scallions / green onions – white bulb separated from green leaves
- 2 kaffir lime leaves
- 2 garlic cloves
- 3 Thai Jinda chili
- 2 tablespoons fish sauce
- 1 cup vegetable stock
- 2 teaspoons palm sugar
- 2 teaspoons chili paste
- 1/2 cup coconut milk
- 8 oz. (225 g) straw mushrooms
- 1 1/2 tablespoons lime juice

METHOD

- 1) CRUSH shallots & cilantro root. Slice the galangal. Cut the Lemongrass into 2 inch (50mm) lengths and crush in a mortar and pestle to release the oils and aroma.
- 2) CHOP cilantro leaves and cut the white parts of the spring onions about 1 1/2 inches (35mm) long for the soup. Remove central veins of kaffir lime leaves and tear in half or quarters.
- 3) POUND garlic & chili to crush thoroughly without complete loss of shape - use a mortar and pestle.
- 4) DROP ingredients from step 1 into a medium saucepan and add vegetable stock. Bring to a simmer at medium heat.
- 5) ADD fish sauce, palm sugar, and chili paste, stirring to mix while returning to a simmer.
- 6) LOWER mushrooms into the soup and cook for a further 2-3 minutes.
- 7) ADD the coconut milk and stir to mix thoroughly.
- 8) ADJUST seasoning with more fish sauce and sugar to your taste, if necessary.
- 9) FINALLY season with lime juice and serve into individual bowls or a larger bowl for sharing. Chop the green leaves of the spring onions and cilantro leaves and place on top to garnish.

Prawns are plentiful in Thai local markets near the coast. This simple recipe takes fresh uncooked prawns and marinates them in fish sauce, pairing with fresh herbs & spices. Bitter gourd is an acquired taste - can be subbed!

Notes on This Dish

Avoid this dish if pregnant or unwell as the shrimp is uncooked.

This 250 year old dish is found across Thailand as an appetizer.

It's fun to eat together with others and to assemble and sauce yourself before your mouth explodes with flavour.

Bitter gourd IS bitter and hard to find in the west. Using a substitute is totally fine.

Recipe Notes

*Substitute the bitter gourd with green apple and cucumber slice to refresh palate between tastes!!

The sauce is a huge part of this dish – try not to change that!

Leave the tails on the prawns but otherwise clean thoroughly

INDICATIVE NUTRITION GUIDE per serving

Calories: 49kcal | Carbohydrates: 3g | Protein: 7g | Fat: 1g | Saturated Fat: 1g | Cholesterol: 86mg | Sodium: 840mg | Potassium: 55mg | Sugar: 2g | Vitamin A: 75IU | Vitamin C: 7mg | Calcium: 53mg | Iron: 1mg

Unattended: 0 mins

Preparing: 15 min

Cooking: 0 min

INGREDIENTS

PRAWNS/SHRIMP

- 6 oz (150g) fresh shrimp
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 2 tablespoons tapioca flour
- 4 fl. oz. (100ml) soda water
- 1 tablespoon fish sauce

SEAFOOD SAUCE

- 2 cilantro roots
- 3 garlic cloves
- 4 cloves pickled garlic
- 3 bird's eye chili
- pinch coarse salt
- 1 tablespoon fish sauce
- 2 teaspoons pickled garlic water
- 1 tablespoon lime juice
- 1 teaspoon palm sugar

GARNISH

- shredded white cabbage
- shredded purple cabbage
- shredded carrot
- bitter gourd
- sliced garlic
- mint leaves

METHOD

PREPARE THE SHRIMP & GARNISH

- 1) DEVEIN the shrimp by cutting the shell down the back and peeling away the shell and head section. Cut into the flesh to expose the black digestive tract at the back and pull it away.
- 2) SALT the shrimp and wash under running water. Coat the shrimp with tapioca flour massage into the flesh. Soak in soda water for 2-3 minutes. Washing in soda removes the fishy smell leaving the prawns/shrimp fresh. Leave soaking in the fish sauce.
- 3) SHRED the white & purple cabbage and carrot and pull the leaves off your mint. Slice the bitter gourd (or substitute) into ¼ inch (6mm) slices. Slice the garlic cloves quite thickly – each clove into two or three slices.

MAKING SEAFOOD SAUCE

- 4) WASH cilantro/coriander roots, peel the garlic cloves and chop to ease pounding.
- 5) POUND cilantro roots first together with a pinch of coarse salt to help soak up moisture and give abrasion. Add the chopped garlic & pickled garlic and pound together. Chop the chili, add to the mortar and pound with a grinding action to a coarse paste.
- 6) POUR in the lime juice, fish sauce, and add the palm sugar mixing together with the pestle to finish the sauce.
- 7) STRAIN the shrimp from the fish sauce and arrange on a plate with the garnishes and serve with the seafood sauce you made on the side.

Traditionally pork is left in the hot Thai sun to dry before cooking. That is not always possible in colder climes and so this recipe uses an air fryer instead. And it works really well!

Notes on This Dish

Sun dried meat is often simply left out to dry which is not hygienic. If you leave it outside make sure it is covered with gauze to prevent insects contaminating the meat.

Air fryer drying works perfectly well if your appliance has a low setting of around 80°C and is a much cleaner method.

Recipe Notes

This dish is mainly eaten as a snack but also often ordered as a dish as part of a family meal.

It is somewhat akin to jerky but with a little more tasty fat.

Pick good cuts of meat and trim off any hard to eat fat and gristle.

You can make this recipe with beef as well but use a good cut such as tenderloin.

INDICATIVE NUTRITION GUIDE per serving

Calories: 194kcal | Carbohydrates: 5g | Protein: 21g | Fat: 9g | Saturated Fat: 4g | Cholesterol: 70mg | Sodium: 651mg | Potassium: 354mg | Fiber: 1g | Sugar: 4g | Vitamin A: 1IU | Vitamin C: 1mg | Calcium: 15mg | Iron: 2mg

Unattended: 0 mins

Preparing: 5 min

Cooking: 10 min

INGREDIENTS

- 12 oz. (300 g) pork shoulder
- 2 teaspoons brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon fish sauce
- 1 teaspoon ground white pepper
- 1 teaspoon cooking oil
- 2 teaspoons soy sauce
- vegetable oil for frying (method two)
- 4 fried kaffir lime leaves (garnish)
- 1 sliced cucumber (garnish)

METHOD

- 1) WASH the pork shoulder and slice into strips. Dab dry with a kitchen paper towel
- 2) MIX brown sugar, fish sauce, freshly ground white pepper, cooking oil and soy sauce together in a large bowl.
- 3) ADD sliced pork and massage the marinade mixture well into the flesh with your fingers. Cover and stand for at least 1 hour for the marinade to be absorbed. If you have time, cover, refrigerate and marinate overnight.
- 4) PLACE strips of marinated pork in an air fryer set at 80°C and air dry for 30 minutes. The strips can sit atop one another a little. Move around every 10 minutes for even drying

METHOD ONE – AIR FRYER

- 5) Remove half of the pork strips and arrange to maximize air flow around each strip. Increase temperature to 180 degrees Celsius and cook for 7 minutes – check and cook a little longer if necessary. The pork should be flexible similar to jerky. Repeat for a second batch.

METHOD TWO – SHALLOW FRY

- 6) HEAT cooking oil (about ¾ inch (20 mm) deep) until hot. FRY the pork strips for about 5 minutes until the pork is cooked. Drain pork and place on a kitchen paper towel.
- 7) TURN heat off the oil and drop in the kaffir lime leaves, halved with center spines removed. They will curl and crisp in a few seconds.
- 8) Serve with the kaffir lime leaves on top of the pork and sliced cucumber with sticky rice.

Mao means drunk from alcohol, yet this dish has none. Instead of the wide rice noodles traditionally used to make pad khi mao, here we use spaghetti which is to hand in most households.

Notes on This Dish

The key to success for this dish is to make sure not to overcook the spaghetti.

The green peppercorns are not usually eaten – they should be available at a good Asian store.

For a different take you could use green bell pepper slices if finding green peppercorns is difficult.

Recipe Notes

You can skip the green peppercorns without losing too much in the way of taste.

If you want, you can also grind a few black peppercorns to add back the small amount of pepper spice that the green peppercorns release during their short cooking time.

See the section on chilis for Jinda chili alternatives

INDICATIVE NUTRITION GUIDE per serving

Calories: 540kcal | Carbohydrates: 52g | Protein: 40g | Fat: 19g | Saturated Fat: 12g | Cholesterol: 91mg | Sodium: 1123mg | Potassium: 708mg | Fiber: 2g | Sugar: 8g | Vitamin A: 113IU | Vitamin C: 20mg | Calcium: 27mg | Iron: 1mg

Unattended: 0 mins

Preparing: while cooking

Cooking: 15 min

INGREDIENTS

- 4 oz. (100g) (dry) spaghetti
- 1 spur chili
- 2 green peppercorn strings
- 3 garlic cloves
- 4 Jinda chili
- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 10 oz. (250g) chicken breast
- 1 teaspoon black soy sauce
- 1 tablespoon oyster sauce
- 1 tablespoon chicken stock
- 1 tablespoon brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon soy sauce
- 1 handful holy (sweet) basil

METHOD

- 1) BRING a pan of water to the boil, add salt and a teaspoon of cooking oil and cook your spaghetti following the packet instructions for al dente. Taste test the spaghetti which should be soft on the outside with a little bite left in the middle of each noodle.
- 2) DRAIN the spaghetti for use later.
- 3) SLICE the spur chili and cut the green peppercorn strings in half.
- 4) POUND garlic cloves and Jinda chili in a mortar to crush while retaining their shape.
- 5) HEAT vegetable oil in a pan until hot. Slice the chicken breast and cook until about 80% cooked through.
- 6) ADD the crushed chili and garlic and stir for a minute then add in the cooked spaghetti, oyster sauce, soy sauce and brown sugar.
- 7) STIR FRY for two minutes to heat everything through and let the seasonings absorb into the spaghetti noodles. Stir in the spur chili slices.
- 8) Separate the holy basil leaves from their stems.
- 9) TOSS in the holy basil leaves and stir quickly for 45 seconds or so until they start to wilt and serve immediately.

Panang curry is well known for its mild and balanced creamy curry flavors. This Thai Panang curry made with mushrooms, is a nice change from chicken or pork curries.

Notes on This Dish

The original Panang Curry came from Malaysia in the region including the island of Panang.

Imported into Southern Thailand, the dish was adapted to create what is now a distinctly Thai style curry.

Creamy coconut milk balances the heat from Thai chillies to create a lovely taste sensation.

A very adaptable curry too!

Recipe Notes

Make your Panang Curry exceptional in a few moments by improving shop bought paste. You can make Panang Curry Paste from scratch but it's a fiddle.

Whilst you can swap mushrooms for meat, you will need to vary the method so look out for other meat based Panang Curry recipes.

INDICATIVE NUTRITION GUIDE per serving

Calories: 364kcal | Carbohydrates: 21g | Protein: 10g | Fat: 30g | Saturated Fat: 22g | Cholesterol: 0mg | Sodium: 782mg | Potassium: 845mg | Fiber: 3g | Sugar: 11g | Vitamin A: 1395IU | Vitamin C: 38mg | Calcium: 56mg | Iron: 6mg

Unattended: 0 mins

Preparing: 5 min

Cooking: 10 min

INGREDIENTS

- 1 teaspoon cumin seed
- 1 teaspoon coriander seed
- 2 tablespoons roasted peanuts
- 1 tablespoon panang curry paste (shop-bought)
- 1 spur chili
- 5 kaffir lime leaves
- 1 cup coconut milk
- 1 teaspoon palm sugar
- 1 tablespoon fish sauce
- 1 tablespoon tamarind paste
- 4 teaspoons chili paste
- 7 oz. (175g) mushrooms

METHOD

- 1) DRY ROAST cumin and coriander seed until aromatic and beginning to wriggle in the pan.
- 2) POUND in a mortar until you have a fine powder. Add the shop bought Panang curry paste and mix together.
- 3) SLICE spur chili diagonally and about 1/8th inch (3mm) thick.
- 4) ROLL the kaffir lime leaves tightly and then cut very finely into tiny slivers of leaf. This leaf is intended to be eaten as well as for garnish.
- 5) HEAT a pan big enough to hold all the ingredients and add half the coconut milk and the curry paste mix. Stir to integrate into a smooth liquid. Add the remaining coconut milk, stirring continuously. Continue heating to a simmer and cook for about 5 minutes or until you notice oil just beginning to separate.
- 6) SEASON with fish sauce, tamarind paste and palm sugar, stirring well and tasting as you go until you are happy with the taste.
- 7) ADD mushrooms and sliced chili spur and cook for four minutes. Adjust seasoning to taste.
- 8) SERVE with steamed jasmine rice and garnish with finely sliced spur chili and the slivers of kaffir lime leaf.

Stir Fried Red Curry with Chicken & Bamboo Shoots - Pad Prik Kaeng Gai Gap Nor Mai

Stir Fry
Chicken

Thai red curry is very popular but comes in many different styles. This recipe is a little spicier than some with a nice crunch from the bamboo shoots.

Notes on This Dish

There are many red curries and this is one of the more spicy ones.

The bamboo shoots have a distinctive flavour and add much to the dish. Buy canned online or fresh from a local Asian store.

Recipe Notes

Expect the bamboo shoots to smell strange when opened which is normal. Wash thoroughly before using.

Swap out the chicken for pork as a popular alternative.

Serve with fresh steamed Jasmine rice.

INDICATIVE NUTRITION GUIDE per serving

Calories: 233kcal | Carbohydrates: 8g | Protein: 15g | Fat: 26g | Saturated Fat: 11g | Cholesterol: 73mg | Sodium: 957mg | Potassium: 492mg | Fiber: 1g | Sugar: 6g | Vitamin A: 1429IU | Vitamin C: 34mg | Calcium: 16mg | Iron: 1mg

Stir Fried Red Curry with Chicken & Bamboo Shoots

- Pad Prik Kaeng Gai Gap Nor Mai

Stir Fry
Chicken

Unattended: 0 mins

Preparing: 10 min

Cooking: 10 min

INGREDIENTS

- 6 oz. (150 g) canned bamboo shoots*
- 1 spur chili
- 2 kaffir lime leaves
- 8 oz. (200 g) chicken breast
- 1 tablespoon cooking oil
- 1 tablespoon red curry paste
- 2 teaspoons soy sauce
- 2 teaspoons fish sauce
- 1 1/2 tablespoons chicken stock
- 2 teaspoons brown sugar
- 1 handful holy or Thai basil

METHOD

- 1) WASH bamboo shoots under running water and then place in boiling water for 4-5 minutes to remove odour and ready for use.
- 2) SLICE spur chili diagonally. Remove the spines and tear the kaffir lime leaves in two.
- 3) SLICE chicken breasts thinly to better absorb seasonings and speed cooking.
- 4) HEAT cooking oil in a pan that will hold all the ingredients. Add the red curry paste and stir fry until aromatic – about 2 minutes.
- 5) ADD sliced chicken breast and stir fry until about 80% cooked – about 3 minutes or so then add in the chicken stock to maintain moisture and heat through for 30 seconds or so.
- 6) Add the prepared bamboo shoots and stir fry another minute.
- 7) ADD the fish sauce, soy sauce, and brown sugar to season and stir.
- 8) TASTE and adjust seasoning to your taste.
- 9) TOSS in the holy basil leaves and stir for a few seconds until wilted and stir.
- 10) SERVE with fresh steamed jasmine rice.

Cauliflower Rice with Tofu - “Khao Dok Galum Gap Tao Hu Pla”

Stir Fry - Air Fry
Tofu

Cauliflower rice is much underrated with many put off by it's smell and rather bland taste. It doesn't need to be that way. Match it with fish tofu for a great low-calorie dish.

Notes on This Dish

Low carb cauliflower rice really cuts down the calories and our recipe tastes amazing versus your probable expectations.

Tofu is also low fat and low calorie and has plenty of nutrients that your body needs.

That makes this a great light meal!

Recipe Notes

The key to cauliflower rice is getting rid of excess water and binding it.

Rice is laden with starch which helps it stick together but also ramps up the carbs.

So enter some protein rich cheese to bind the cauliflower together lightly.

INDICATIVE NUTRITION GUIDE per serving

Calories: 171kcal | Carbohydrates: 12g | Protein: 14g | Fat: 8g | Saturated Fat: 5g | Cholesterol: 19mg | Sodium: 1280mg | Potassium: 575mg | Fiber: 3g | Sugar: 5g | Vitamin A: 305IU | Vitamin C: 73mg | Calcium: 386mg | Iron: 1mg

Cauliflower Rice with Tofu - “Khao Dok Galum Gap Tao Hu Pla”

Stir Fry - Air Fry
Tofu

Unattended: 0 mins

Preparing: 10 min

Cooking: 10 min

INGREDIENTS

- 1 small head of cauliflower
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 tablespoon olive oil
- 3 cloves garlic (finely chopped)
- 1 teaspoon soy sauce
- 2 ounces (50g) parmesan (finely grated)
- 1 teaspoon lime juice
- 1/2 teaspoon brown sugar
- 2 tablespoons coriander (chopped)
- 12 ounces tofu
- cucumber (sliced)

METHOD

- 1) CUT the florets from the cauliflower stems and place in a bowl.
- 2) PLACE in a blender and pulse to reduce to small rice sized pieces. Or you can cut small just using a chopper or knife.
- 3) SPRINKLE cauliflower rice with salt and leave for about 15 minutes. Then drain off any water drawn out by the salt.
- 4) PLACE the cauliflower rice in a sieve and rinse quickly with water, drain and wring out the cauliflower by twisting in a muslin cloth.
- 5) ADD olive oil and heat until hot in a pan. Add in the chopped garlic and fry until fragrant.
- 6) DROP in the riced cauliflower and stir fry, mixing with the garlic, for about 3 minutes. Tilt the pan and spoon out any water that may remain.
- 7) STIR in the soy sauce, lime juice, grated parmesan, and brown sugar and mix well cooking for a further 3 minutes.
- 8) ALLOW to cool and before serving add in the chopped coriander, stir and serve.
- 9) WHILE making the cauliflower rice, cut the tofu into cubes (if necessary) and place in the air fryer at 180°C for 5 minutes.
- 10) SERVE the cauliflower rice with the tofu and sliced cucumber.

Cashews are a wonderful nut. With a delicious creamy taste they cry out for a pairing with salt and spice. Their wish comes true in the great Thai blend of cashew, chili and crispy fish!

Notes on This Dish

Yum Met Mamuang or cashew nut mix is a very popular menu item in local Thai restaurants in Thailand.

Cashews are grown locally and so preferred over peanuts – deservedly so because they taste so much better.

Knock up this mix but plan for making plenty as they won't last long!

Recipe Notes

This recipe should produce crunchy nuts rather than crispy or soft nuts.

Be careful not to overcook the nuts and so allow to cool after frying and to remove as much oil as possible.

It's a great dish to eat watching t.v.

INDICATIVE NUTRITION GUIDE for 2 oz. serving

Calories: 627kcal | Carbohydrates: 18g | Protein: 44g | Fat: 43g | Saturated Fat: 7g | Cholesterol: 100mg | Sodium: 400mg | Potassium: 1038mg | Fiber: 2g | Sugar: 4g | Vitamin A: 779IU | Vitamin C: 16mg | Calcium: 33mg | Iron: 5mg

Unattended: 0 mins

Preparing: 5 min

Cooking: 10 min

INGREDIENTS

- 8 oz. (200 g) unsalted cashew nuts
- 1 spring/green onion
- 1 stem mint leaves
- 1/2 teaspoon table salt
- 1 red spur chili
- 4 fried kaffir lime leaves (garnish)
- 3/4 cup small fried fish
- 2 cups cooking oil for frying

METHOD

- 1) ADD the cashew nuts to a cold pan with the cooking oil and heat together, stirring regularly until the cashews are golden brown.
- 2) SCOOP out with a spider strainer or slotted spoon and allow to cool on a paper towel. Dab the tops dry with more paper towel to remove the surface oil.
- 3) CHOP spring/green onion tops and red chili spur into small pieces.
- 4) WASH kaffir lime leaves and remove the center spines. Roll the leaves and julienne finely.
- 6) ADD the fried cashew nuts, kaffir, onion tops, fried fish, and chili back into the pan and warm gently under a low heat.
- 7) Sprinkle with salt and serve with a few mint leaves.

Coconuts are plentiful in Thailand and so is the hot sun. No surprise then that coconut ice cream is a Thai favorite. Make it at home for a delicious change and a reminder of the sun!

Notes on This Dish

Heavy cream is almost impossible to find in Thailand. Coconut cream is much preferred and rightfully so.

Coconut cream contains roughly similar fat content to the heavy cream that is often used in making ice cream in the West. But the type of fat is totally different to dairy cream making it a much healthier alternative.

Recipe Notes

After taking out of the freezer, leave the ice cream a few minutes to soften before serving.

INDICATIVE NUTRITION GUIDE per serving

Calories: 194kcal | Carbohydrates: 5g | Protein: 21g | Fat: 9g | Saturated Fat: 4g | Cholesterol: 70mg | Sodium: 651mg | Potassium: 354mg | Fiber: 1g | Sugar: 4g | Vitamin A: 1IU | Vitamin C: 1mg | Calcium: 15mg | Iron: 2mg

Unattended: 6+ hours

Preparing: 15 + 10 min

Cooking: 0 min

INGREDIENTS

- 1/2 cup drinking water
- 1 teaspoon agar agar
- 4 tablespoons sugar (white, brown etc)
- 1 pinch salt
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 2 1/2 cups coconut milk

METHOD

- 1) IF using a refrigerated bowl type ice cream maker then put the bowl into your freezer for at least 24 hours before you make the ice cream. Put coconut milk for the recipe in the fridge at the same time.
- 2) BEFORE you start get organised with everything needed to hand (but leave the freezer bowl, mixing bowl and container in which you will freeze the ice cream in the freezer, and the coconut milk in the fridge.
- 3) SOAK the agar agar powder in 1/2 cup water in a saucepan for 10 minutes to soften. Then bring the mixture to a boil and reduce heat to simmer.
- 4) ADD in the sugar, salt & vanilla essence and stir to dissolve. Continue to simmer for 6 – 7 minutes until the solution is clear when coating the back of a spoon. As soon as the time is up be ready to mix the ice cream.
- 6) REMOVE the coconut milk from the fridge and whisk in your cool mixing bowl. While whisking continuously, add in the sweet, warm agar agar liquid (which will immediately begin to gel) and whisk rapidly until mixed.
- 7) TURN on your ice cream maker and churn until semi frozen. Freeze for 2 hours then remove and stir before returning to the freezer.
- 8) IF making manually then transfer the ice cream mix into a cold container and freeze. Remove every hour and mix with a whisk to break up ice crystals until too stiff to whisk any more.

Bai Toei is the leaf from the pandan shrub that have a herbal, aromatic quality. Here they provide a mild tasting drink. They are also commonly used to add fragrance when steaming.

Notes on This Dish

A mild tasting fragrant drink made from the pandanus plant and commonly drunk across Thailand.

Recipe Notes

Pandan leaves can be bought from Asian markets or purchased in dry form online from various locations.

You can use either the dried or fresh leaves for this drink.

Vary the number of leaves to adjust strength and if too strong once made simply dilute with cold water.

INDICATIVE NUTRITION GUIDE for 1 serving

Calories: 627kcal | Carbohydrates: 18g | Protein: 44g | Fat: 43g | Saturated Fat: 7g | Cholesterol: 100mg | Sodium: 400mg | Potassium: 1038mg | Fiber: 2g | Sugar: 4g | Vitamin A: 779IU | Vitamin C: 16mg | Calcium: 33mg | Iron: 5mg

Unattended: 0 mins

Preparing: 5 min

Cooking: 10 min

INGREDIENTS

- 20 fresh pandanus leaves (or 2 cups dried)
- 8 cups water
- 1/2 cup sugar
- ice

METHOD

- 1) WASH the pandanus leaves and cut into sections about 2-3 inches (50-75mm) long.
- 2) BRING the water to a boil and drop in the pandanus leaves.
- 3) BOIL for 5 minutes and then carefully strain off the pandanus water.
- 4) OFF the heat but whilst still hot, add in the sugar and stir until dissolved.
- 5) ALLOW the pandanus water to cool to room temperature and then transfer into the fridge to cool further.
- 6) SERVE poured over a glass of ice.

A SELECTION OF INTRODUCTORY THAI DISHES

Hot & Sour Mushroom Soup – “Tom Yum Het”	4
Fresh Prawns in Fish Sauce – “Kung Share Nahm Pla”	6
Mushroom Massaman – “Massaman Het”	8
Stir Fried Chicken with Bamboo Shoots – “Pad Prik Gai”	10
Drunken Spaghetti – “Pad Kee Mao Spaghetti”	12
Sun Dried Pork Snack – “Moo Daet Deow”	14
Cauliflower Rice with Tofu -	16
Stir Fried Beef in Oyster Sauce – “Pad Prik Nua Man Hoi”	18
Coconut Ice Cream – “Ice Crim Maplao”	20
Thai Cashews – “Yum Med Mamuang”	22
Thai Pandanus Cooler – “Nahm Bai Toei”	24

I HOPE YOU ENJOYED THIS FREE COOKBOOK!

This is just a small sample of recipes I have shared on my blog.
Please visit me at TastyThais.com for more recipes!

<https://www.tastythais.com>

Looks Good! Tastes Good! Makes You Feel Good!

- Phasinee

